

Massive cuts trees

This problem of cutting trees persists throughout the our country. It is already known that the cutting of trees harms the environment. Over time the lungs of the planet , the trees, will disappear if people who are responsible for this destruction of nature will not take steps to mitigate this cuts.

Because this issue also manifests itself in my village, through cuts deemed lawful, necessary but hamful, I decided to analyze the possible consequences of such destructions. Under the guise of influential people who have subordinated the forests of my village, lies a strange indifference, or else those tall trees of my village wouldn't disappear every week. The forests in Suceava country benefit from surveillance through drones, as a first method for discovering illegal logging of forests. They operate continuously as evidence that the wood business by thieves has decreased.

On the other hand I think that another way to solve this problem is planting trees on deforested portions. It takes forever, but why don't we think of nature, the consequences of these cuts? The landslides is the main negative result, the soil is also affected and wild animals lose their habitat.

So in these four pictures I tried to capture Nature's pain while losing her green treasures. It's scary that people still cut all the trees without any regrets. From my point of view these photos capture the pain of the forest and I, a nature lover, I didn't hesitate to draw attention on the phenomenon and try to be the voice of the forest.

So, keep saving and planting trees because they're the ones which can save this polluted and exploited planet.
